Academic Integrity and Classroom Disruption

Academic honesty and mutual respect (student with student and instructor with student) are expected in Math 211. Students are expected to abide by the Student Judicial Code. In particular, forms of academic misconduct as defined therein will not be treated lightly. Students are expected to abide by classroom procedures and testing procedures as defined by the instructor. Mutual respect means being on time for class and not leaving early, being prepared to give full attention to the class work as defined by the instructor, not reading newspapers or other material during class time, not using cell phones or other related mechanical devices during class time, remaining in class throughout the class session, etc.

For further details: Please note the University policies on Attendance, Academic Integrity and Classroom Disruption, as set out in the Undergraduate Catalog.
